FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Unconventional Local Female Leaders to Inspire Young Women Students to Design Our Future at the 4th National Young Women Leaders' Day 2012

Singapore, 24 February, 2012 – Fighting pirates, conquering mountain peaks, documenting wildlife and helming a food retail chain are not activities you will typically associate with women. Come 3rd March 2012 at the Kallang Theatre, four brave home-grown female leaders LTC Goh Jerica (Executive Officer of RSS Intrepid (frigate)), Sim Yi Hui (Co-Leader of Singapore All-Women's Everest Team), Chen Shun Ling (Founder of Life List Chase) and Lyn Lee (Co-Owner of Awfully Chocolate) will be inspiring 600 female students from 16 schools at the National Young Women Leaders' Day with their life stories.

The fourth National Young Women Leaders' Day is timed by organizer Halogen Foundation Singapore, in partnership with Women's Register of the Singapore Council of Women's Organisations, to lead up to the celebration of International Women's Day. It is both a commemoration of how far women have progressed and a challenge for our young women. Guest-of-Honour Madam Halimah Yacob (Minister of State for MCYS) will be challenging our young women leaders to pick up the baton to design the future of their families, communities and the nation.

Beyond being inspired, the young women leaders can step forward to sign up with social good organisations like Animal Concerns Research and Education Society, Blessings in a Bag, Cat Welfare Society, Singapore Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and World Vision Singapore. For those with an appetite for outdoor adventure, they can also join wildlife photography expeditions with Life List Chase and sign on with the Republic of Singapore Navy through the Navy Recruitment Centre.

Martin Tan, Executive Director of Halogen Foundation Singapore champions Singaporean women on "We are living in exciting times — a time where women have both the potential and tools to change the world. In a new world where issues of social responsibility are taking centre stage, female leaders matter more than ever. Countries which are more inclusive of women flourish, both socially and economically because of how women give back to their communities."
